Municipal Election.

Let every Whig in the city bear in mind that it is his duty to vote his Whig.

THIS DAY.

In order to secure the election of Whig officers for the city. The nomination made by one of the largest Whig Caucuses ever held in the city of New York.

WILLIAM ABBOT, Esq.

For Mayor, as a nomination highly creditable to the Whig party and honorable to the nominee. Whig party are assured that they have a strong regard for the honor, the reputation and the good government of the city.

The Ward Officers.

should receive the support of all the Whig voters. It is admitted that the nominations for the City Council are equal to any that have ever been elected in the city—many of them have had experience in city business and will regulate wisely and well for the city.

Vote Early.

For in some of the wards there will be no sort of combination to elect Local candidates, and if possible to break down the regular Whig nominations, and after your own vote is in, look around among your neighbors and if they have not voted urge them to do so.

Let Every Whig do his Duty.

and the Whig ticket will be elected and no honest, efficient and highly respectable administration of the city government be secured to the whole people and all who aid in the establishment of it will have occasion to rejoice in the result.

The Christian Examiner—March 1849.

We have received from Messrs. G. H. Smith & Co. the March number of this able publication.

The following is the table of contents:

The Past, the Present, and the Future. Rev. Samuel Ripley. The Claims of the Ministry. The English Revolution. Chalm's Apostolical Constitutions. Italy and Pius the Ninth. Hedge's Prose Writers of Germany. Pious Discipline. Sermons on Christian Communion. Notices of Recent Publications.

Later from Mexico.

The U. S. steamer Elbion arrived at New Orleans on the 10th inst. from Vera Cruz, whence she sailed on the 10th inst.

The Elbion brought over the remains of Col. M. F. Smith, 13th regiment military and of James B. Blake.

The N. O. Freighter says: We have covered with a passenger on board the Elbion, who states that he had been informed by Gen. Twiggs that he had received positive information that Gen. Smith had granted Santa Anna the passport, and that he was expected in Vera Cruz by the 24th inst.

Gen. E. B. Eastman has been arrested in Cincinnati, with $15,000 in counterfeit money in his possession.

The Springfield Republican learns that the locomotive engaged in the strikes on the Connecticut River and Vermont Railroads, on Saturday, destroyed much property along the lines, and drove off the men who had continued in their work.

Rep. Samuel Parker has requested us to state that he declines the nomination, as a candidate for the office of Alderman of the Fourth Ward.

In the event of Mr. Crittenden's election to be governor of Kentucky, Mr. Clay has been named, at the request of his friends, to resume his place in the United States Senate—the Legislature consenting.

It is said that 1000 wild turkeys were seen on one roost, lately, at the mouth of the Missouri, but it is not said who counted them. The numbers are about right, however, for the month of March.

Mr. Bickford in the basement of the High School has received a large quantity of book binding, the best of the season and credit as a man.

Henry Clay's Visit to New York.

On Tuesday the 7th inst. Mr. Clay visited the city of New York and was received with the demonstrations of honor and of a hearty welcome, worthy of so eminent a Statesman and devoted patriot.

The New York Express says that, "it is well known it was Mr. Clay's desire that his visit here should not be attended by any party—either Whig or Democrat, but that he should be greeted by the unadorned and, on every side, enthusiastic and hearty greeting, every where meeting him, from the thousands of good Whig and Democrat who crowd around to grasp his hand, to impress upon the conviction that it is a personal demonstration, after all, for a cordial in the social station of friendship and respect for the man, that it seems to us, men of every political persuasion, ordered, even to be, and in the time, feel that they are all Clay men, it is not in a political sense, at least in their admiration for him, who, grown gray in the country's service, would still "father be right than President."

At about one o'clock, the Municipal Committee, together with a large number of invited guests distinguished strangers and private citizens, assembled on board the Steamer Commodore Vanderbilt, to proceed to Albany.

Arriving at Albany about half past 1 the train about a quarter of 10 afterwards arrived at the depot, which was very tastefully decorated with flags, etc. We shall not attempt to describe it, as it is impossible to describe the burst of enthusiasm which broke forth from the grinning decks of the Vanderbilt waler, in sympathy of the Philadelphia Committee Mr. Clay's visit to the boat. Short speeches were made each renewed cheer that together with the first, and in the end the mass of human beings all eagerly pressing forward to catch a glimpse of Old Hail, that numerous apprehensions were expressed in the safety of the upper decks.

To these manifestations of enthusiasm from the multitude Mr. Clay bowed graciously. He was then escorted to the stern deck of the Steamer Commodore Vanderbilt, and Mr. Martin McGuire, one of the Philadelphia Committee introduced into the New York Municipal Delegation, in a very feeling and neat address. Mr. Clay, having come to Philadelphia in a public capacity, but in the pursuit of his professional calling, anxious to avoid all parade, and desiring to meet his friends in the familiar way, he addressed them in a familiar way, he addressed them in a familiar way, he addressed them in a familiar way.

Can the Abolition be Forgotten?

Mr. Henry C. Watson makes the following graceful allusion, (written for us), in the leading article of the last number of his interesting weekly, "The American Masses Times." They almost say themselves. [N. Y. Express.]

Can the Abolition be forgotten? Can their memories ever die? Were they loved to be remembered As a shadow on the sky? Can the early tears that bound us Like to mourning dreams depart? Forbid it, heaven, for then will cease All truthfulness of heart.

Can the Abolition be Forgotten?

Mr. Henry C. Watson makes the following graceful allusion, (written for us), in the leading article of the last number of his interesting weekly, "The American Masses Times." They almost say themselves. [N. Y. Express.]

Can the Abolition be forgotten? Can their memories ever die? Were they loved to be remembered As a shadow on the sky? Can the early tears that bound us Like to mourning dreams depart? Forbid it, heaven, for then will cease All truthfulness of heart.

Can the Abolition be forgotten? Can their memories ever die? Were they loved to be remembered As a shadow on the sky? Can the early tears that bound us Like to mourning dreams depart? Forbid it, heaven, for then will cease All truthfulness of heart.

Can the Abolition be forgotten? Can their memories ever die? Were they loved to be remembered As a shadow on the sky? Can the early tears that bound us Like to mourning dreams depart? Forbid it, heaven, for then will cease All truthfulness of heart.

Can the Abolition be forgotten? Can their memories ever die? Were they loved to be remembered As a shadow on the sky? Can the early tears that bound us Like to mourning dreams depart? Forbid it, heaven, for then will cease All truthfulness of heart.
